 Rhode Island
Food Strategy

Governor Gina Raimondo and First Gentleman Andy Moffit, DEM & partners to host a special celebration during the 16th Annual Ag Day at the State House.

Agriculture and fishing enjoy a rich and colorful history in the Ocean State and continue to be areas of economic and cultural significance. These industries are at the heart of our vibrant food scene. And each year, we celebrate them on Ag Day.

As part of the festivities this year, Rhode Island's first statewide Food Strategy will be unveiled – an actionable vision for local food that builds on our momentum in the space, celebrates our unique strengths and cuisine, and ensures all Rhode Islanders benefit from fresh, locally grown food. The 2017 Local Agriculture & Seafood Act grant awards will also be announced.

Wednesday, May 17

3:00 p.m. - 4:30 p.m. | State House | Providence, Rhode Island 02903

On Ag Day, local farmers, food businesses, and community groups provide free food samples and information about their work to the public. Displays are set up around the State House Rotunda from 11:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. We invite you to take part in this tradition and meet your local farmer while experiencing the delicious foods and flavors Rhode Island has to offer.
